

ASSOCIATE PROGRAM

The ArchAIDE project seeks to create a tool that will be truly useful to the archaeological community. This can only be achieved with feedback and collaboration from the practitioners we hope to serve. We also wish to create a community around the project to bring together expertise and ideas for the benefit of all. As the project progresses, there will be opportunities to engage with ArchAIDE in formal and informal ways. To do this, we are building a group of ArchAIDE Associates. If you are interested becoming involved in ArchAIDE please consider becoming an ArchAIDE Associate!

ArchAIDE Associates will typically be:

- Pottery Specialists
- Archaeologists
- Archaeology Students
- Digital Cultural Heritage Specialists

ArchAIDE Associates will have opportunities to:

- Participate in workshops demonstrating the ArchAIDE App
- Participate in testing focus groups around work-in-progress
- Participate in surveys about the app
- Provide expert feedback to the project
- Participate in a shared online community around the project
- Be notified about upcoming opportunities to learn more about the project at conferences and other venues
- Share data with others

This project has received funding from the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme under grant agreement No 693548

If you are interested in becoming an ArchAIDE Associate, please complete the associates form (click on Collaborate with Us) and a project partner will be in touch!

The first step of your association will be the registration of an account enabling you to access the “ArchAIDE Associates” intranet site, the place that we will use to communicate and collaborate by exchanging ideas, documents and useful material. As soon as your account is ready you will receive emails from the administrator guiding you to your first access.
